CEDIA, your leading education resource in the residential electronic systems industry, is offering an in-depth learning experience through the all-new Power Hour Webinar Series. This series will deliver hot topics that affect electronic systems contractor businesses. The CEDIA Technology Council, CEDIA University e-Learning, Survival of the Fittest, and Industry Outreach teams have joined forces to provide you relevant and timely information on emerging trends, new revenue streams, and technical education that will identify business opportunities as well as allow ESCs to gain valuable education and continuing education units. Find out more at www.cedia.org/powerhour.

Live Power Hour Webinars:

Highlight Reel: How to Make Your Business Survive

2010 has been an interesting year. Some companies are recovering from the biggest economic downturn in memory, while many companies are still struggling. Join us this month as we discuss the themes we covered in our 2010 Survival of the Fittest Webinar Series. Some of the topics we will cover include Energy Management, Recurring Revenue, Internet Marketing Strategies, Age-in-Place Opportunities, Home Automation and Your Finances. Join Jason Knott, Editor in Chief of CEPro Magazine, on December 7 at noon Eastern as we examine proven ways that today's ESCs have not only survived but thrived in today's market. Free and Available to Members Only.
